We should be extremely glad to find a change in this point also. We have been frequently asked--Is it advisable to take up any subjects prescribed by the Science and Art

Department during the period of training? This depends solely upon the state of preparation in which the student is. If his position on the Scholarship List be a creditable one, then by all means let him take up one or two Science subjects; but we cannot too strongly condemn the practice which unfortunately prevails largely at present, of taking up Science subjects when the student's time might be far more advantageously occupied in preparing for the Christmas Examination. The result very frequently is that many students are either "plucked" or barely pass in May, and also stand low in the Certificate List, whereas if they had postponed the study of Science until the completion of their training, they might have done well in both departments. On the other hand, if a student has been carefully prepared as an apprentice, and passes the Admission Examination well, his mind will be disciplined and improved by the study of Science. It is no part of our present duty to name any particular subjects; the student should be guided in this matter by his own individual taste, and by the requirements of the district in which his future sphere of labour will probably lie, and also by the teachers in the college where he resides. We propose, however, to devote the next chapter to a brief... The purpose of this document is to act as an introduction, rationale, & guide to government departments & agencies wishing to better

2011 Updated Reprint. Updated Annually. UK Foreign Policy and Government Guide Classic Books Library presents this brand new edition of “The Federalist Papers”, a collection of separate essays and articles compiled in 1788 by Alexander Hamilton. Following the United States Declaration of Independence in 1776, the governing doctrines and policies of the States lacked cohesion. “The Federalist”, as it was previously known, was constructed by American statesman Alexander Hamilton, and was intended to catalyse the ratification of the United States Constitution. Hamilton recruited fellow statesmen James Madison Jr., and John Jay to write papers for the compendium, and the three are known as some of the Founding Fathers of the United States. Alexander Hamilton (c. 1755-1804) was an American lawyer, journalist and highly influential government official. He also served as a Senior Officer in the Army between 1799-1800 and founded the Federalist Party, the system that governed the nation’s finances. His contributions to the Constitution and leadership made a significant and lasting impact on the early development of the nation of the United States. Are you frustrated and confused over the way things are going in our Great Nation? I certainly am and wish to share with you what I consider is our best chance in the 2012 elections to get us back on track to restore this once Great Republic. This guide suits this format to allow portability so all of us can discuss at every opportunity. There is a desperate need to change how Congress does the people's business in Washington. You feel the same if you accept certain polls indicating their popularity level at around 10-12 %. First we must eliminate the present culture in Congress by instituting term limits. This is the only way to remove the old dogs, with their insidious policies, who run The Senate and The House of Representatives. Once this is accomplished, only then can we force the new or incumbent Congress to alter how political campaigns are funded. We must return to a system where your favorite elected official actually speaks in your behalf, as opposed to following mandates dictated by special interests. There is a way to make these changes, if we have the will to cause it to happen. I strongly believe this is our last chance to re-set our course before Government gets so out of control we arrive at the eternal abyss and end up in the ash heap of history. Can we return to our once

Great Republic by breaking free from the bonds that tie us to large banking and corporate interests? It has been said that a free press is the fourth branch of Government, designed to keep the Executive, Judicial and Legislative Branches under constant scrutiny. The so called current established media has failed to fulfill this responsibility causing us to doubt them and also question the sincerity of our leaders. Remember we do not have to "Throw all The Bums Out" in 2012, all we have to do is hold their feet to the fire and force them to modify their behavior. A very precise way is outlined in this guide and can be accomplished if we are motivated to make it happen.
